

Ideas for Argumentative Research

Can't decide what topics/issues would lend themselves to argumentative research? Try checking these sites for some current topics/issues.

<http://www.gc.maricopa.edu/english/topicarg.html>

http://www.questia.com/popularSearches/controversial_topics.jsp

<http://www.speakout.com/activism/issues/>

<http://lib.lbcc.edu/handouts/topics.html>

<http://library.sau.edu/bestinfo/Hot/hotindex.htm>

<http://www.lib.odu.edu/libassist/idea/index.php>

<http://directory.google.com/Top/Society/Issues/>

http://dir.yahoo.com/Society_and_Culture/issues_and_Causes/

<http://www.multcolib.org/homework/sohc.html>

<http://www.csulb.edu/library/subj/Paper%20Topics/hottopics/contropaptop.htm>

<http://wwwdstc.nhmccd.edu/Templates/content.aspx?pid=24087>

http://www.procon.org/?gclid=COzu8_rv1IICFTukIgod-QR9rg

<http://kclibrary.nhmccd.edu/hot-topics.html>

Check the OPAC for Opposing Viewpoints Series, Current Controversies, Contemporary World Issues, At Issue, Pro/Con (Ohio Link)

Tips for Discovering and Exploring a Topic

<http://www.siue.edu/~smoiles/topic.html>

<http://www.aud.edu/library/guides/ResearchGuideENG.doc>