

Dear ,

We now have over 1,000 schools in all 50 states and 26 countries using our free educational resources. We've had 16 media references so far this year (compared to 73 in all of 2009), and six countries have referenced ProCon.org in 23 of their official government reports. Plus, we have just posted great new research on many of our topics (see below).

1. Video Games: Do violent video games contribute to youth violence?

Read the top pro and con arguments made by Bill Clinton, the American Academy of Pediatrics, the Office of the Surgeon General, the US Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit, professors, psychologists, and others.

2. Vaccines: Should vaccines be required for children?

See the top pro and con opinions from the American Academy of Pediatrics, the Association of American Physicians and Surgeons, the Centers for Disease Control, physicians such as Dr. Paul Offit and Dr. Joseph Mercola, and citizen activists.

3. Obesity: Is obesity a disease?

Read the top pro, con, and not clearly pro or con positions from the World Health Organization (WHO), FDA, IRS, National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute (NHLBI), and other doctors, scientists, and federal government agencies.

4. ProCon.org has now been used by 1,009 schools in 26 countries and all 50 US states

We are thrilled to have 176 elementary and middle schools, 435 high schools, and 398 colleges and universities using the free nonpartisan research we provide to stimulate critical thinking. The newest international school using ProCon.org is in Qatar.

(Teachers and librarians, please take our 2-minute survey and let us know what you think about ProCon.org.)

5. Get Involved

If you like what we do, there are 19 ways you can help ProCon.org without spending a dime. Check out our "Getting Involved" page. Some helpful actions take only a few minutes.

Please help keep our sites free and without advertising. You can support us in two ways:

1. Make an online tax-deductible donation, and
2. Mail a contribution to: ProCon.org, 233 Wilshire Blvd., Suite 200, Santa Monica, CA 90401

Let us know how we can do better, and, as always, thank you for your support.

Sincerely,

Kamy Akhavan
