Center for Immigration Studies

Constitution Center

First Amendment Center

Great starting point for all things first in the bill of rights (as a refresher, that would include, speech, press, religion, assembly, petition)

Global Issues

Looking at international problems, and linking and analyzing problems on a global scale

Immigration Forum

Multnomah Library Research

Library website with links to reserch on different current issues

NBC's iCue

Managed by NBC, allows you to search for video clips and information by topic. The "US Government and Politics Section" would probably be most helpful. From there, you can see topics like "public policy" and "civil liberties and rights." You can also search the whole site by keyword

Opposing Views - University of Washington

Links organized by types of topics - general, multi-issue, or single-issue. One of the best sites for quick links to many of the major American institutions involved in public affairs and opinion

Oyez

Information and background on US Supreme Court cases. Also searchable by topics

PBS NewsHour

Analysis, background reports and updates from the NewsHour with Jim Lehrer putting today's news in context.

ProCon.org

Looks and pros and cons of some of the most controversial issues. Not all topics covered

Public Agenda

Links to 22 controversial topics in the social sciences, health, education, the environment, government. Each topic contains the following: "Understanding the Issue" (factual, non-partisan commentary, recent news coverage, opposing viewpoints, research studies, organizations) and "Public Opinion" (polling data, public opinion on policy options, public opinion volatility on the issue). Each topical analysis also includes a "Fact File" which includes statistical information, graphs, timelines, surveys relating to the issue

Religious Topics

Managed by the Ontario Center for Religious Tolerance

San Antonio Public Library

Links on social issues

St. Ambrose University Hot Paper Topics

Links to what they call "the best information on the net". Divided by topic
