Made the process of research easier for them. They were interested. I hope as I continue to use it they will understand the pro/con process and not be so narrow in their thinking.

I assigned a pro/con essay to teach the basic format and in the hopes of getting substantial arguments, I assigned procon.org. I am allowing several of them to use material from procon as research material for a research paper. These last are students that would not do anything if I didn't give a good, strong push.
