Environmental Studies

- NEW! Aldo Leopold Archives ... raw materials that document not only Leopold's rise to prominence but the history of conservation and the emergence of the field of ecology from the early 1900s until his death in 1948. Leopold was a meticulous and disciplined generator and retainer of important correspondence, memorandum, reports, and related materials. ...his papers contain at least 500 more unpublished essays, reports, and memorandum of significance. He also kept detailed diaries and journals of his Forest Service activity, his travels, hunting and field experience, and observations and activities at his Sand County farm. He maintained active correspondence (both outgoing and incoming) with more than a hundred professional and conservation organizations, with his many graduate students, and with hundreds of leaders in a range of scholarly disciplines, professional fields, government agencies, and conservation organizations... The collection has been augmented by correspondence and related materials carefully retained over the years by his mother, his wife, and other family members and professional associates.. It also includes student notebooks and course materials from his studies in Burlington, Lawrenceville and Yale, and copies of his inspection reports on many national forests in the Southwest as well as hundreds of family photographs and photographs taken by Leopold to illustrate aspects of wildlife ecology and land management.

- Aldo Leopold Wilderness Research Institute "To develop the knowledge needed to protect and preserve wilderness and the ecological and social values derived from Wilderness and similarly managed lands, and To communicate and apply this knowledge to the Wilderness management agencies and other user groups" Includes full-text publications
- Center for Biological Diversity Combining conservation biology with litigation, policy advocacy, and an innovative strategic vision, the Center for Biological Diversity is working to secure a future for animals and plants hovering on the brink of extinction, for the wilderness they need to survive, and by extension for the spiritual welfare of generations to come
- Defenders of Wildlife dedicated to the protection of all native wild animals and plants in their natural communities
- Ecological Restoration Institute ...works to heal fire-adapted forests and other ecosystems in western North America
- EPA \(Environmental Protection Agency\) topics include Global Warming, Wetlands, Watersheds, Environmental management, Human Health, Pollutants, Wastes, and Water
- Institute for the Study of Society and the Environment ... committed to effectively integrating the needs of society with astute knowledge of the environment "to better understand and communicate impacts of weather, climate, and global change." A good place to start on the Institute's website is the "Our Research" area, which provides copious material on its current research projects.
- Nature Conservancy, Arizona Chapter documents and data
