If you have a link to your lesson plan or reference to ProCon.org, please include it below.

I had students brainstorm the pros and cons of marijuana, drinking age, social net working, and gay marriage (in different units) using a "T" chart in a group setting prior to our discussion on the topics. After they created their chart, they had to compare it to yours and see if there were areas they were missing or hadn't delved into yet. Each time they used this process they got better at managing it!

Your customer service is wonderful! I had a concern about the pro/con section of abortion and was not only listened to, changes were made and I was notified about the changes. Thank you!
