With two debates down and one to go, there are still plenty of Americans who claim to be "undecided" with regards to the presidential election. Some say they are not hearing clear answers during the debates between Senators Barack Obama and John McCain. Others say the candidates talk in generalities and do not get specific enough.

If you would like to see where the candidates claim to stand on many of the key issues, there are several websites that provide those answers.

The websites www.ontheissues.org and www.2008election.procon.org show where each candidate stands on the issues, and in many cases, how each voted on those issues.

You can also go to the official websites of the candidates to get more detailed information, especially regarding the economic situation. Websites help explain where candidates really stand on issues

The second debate and the usual deaf-ear to the illegal immigration invasion of our nation. Obama and McCain not a word. In fact not much of anything. Just bickering!

The economy is in serious trouble and places like California are supporting illegal alien families with massive welfare payments. $ billions of dollars that could be spent on the legal population, infrastructure, health care is supporting illegal pariah employer hires.

YOU, THE TAXPAYER ARE UNDERWRITING THE BUSINESSES, WHO EMPLOY ILLEGAL ALIENS OVER LEGAL WORKERS.

Even our own government is violating it's own laws, by funding 'Sanctuary cities'. MILLIONS have stolen into our country and we reward them with taxpayer money. STOP IT! Or they will never stop coming..

The pestilence will not stop growing till we rigidly enforce immigration laws. the middle class already overburdened with war appropriation funds, is still forced to pay for the education, free health-care and Federal, state welfare handouts for illegal criminals.

Be observant and watch for VOTER FRAUD, as illegal aliens will commit perjury in November
