Could marijuana use become legal in Missouri? Missouri marijuana advocates are hoping to let voters answer that question next year.

A group called Show-Me Cannabis filed an initiative request with the Missouri Secretary of State on Wednesday. The initiative would legalize the drug and regulate medical use.

We put the question to our KRCG Facebook see an issue on the 2012 November ballot to legalize the drug in Missouri, some strongly wanting medical marijuana legalized and others opposed to the measure.

Would you support the legalization of marijuana on the ballot in 2012? Do you think this harm or help Missouri's economy?

Melissa Pope I would support it, I agree that there are many deaths each year from cigs and alcohol. And if people use it for medical and it helps them then what is the big damn deal? U will pump a person full of man made drugs to help but not let them smoke something that grows natural?

Kim Archer I could have smoked it while fighting my cancer but I chose not to. those tht smoke it. will rather it is legal or not. But alot of money can be made off of it for those that grow it legaly, and to the state on tax's. And the money off of it would not be GOING TO DRUG DEALING THUGS.

Natural Choices, Natural Life To those who question the difference between cigarette and marijuana smoking, the difference is quite clear- most cigarettes have man-made chemicals embedded into them, those chemicals are the reasons behind the health problems so prevalent...

The state must approve the ballot language for a proposed Missouri constitutional amendment and then the group would have to collect enough signatures from registered voters by next May to get the question on the November ballot.

The measure would decriminalize pot use, possession and small-scale cultivation by Missourians age 21 and older. It would also require the state to issue retail licenses to sell the drug and oversee a medical marijuana program.

Sixteen states have medical marijuana programs. Activists are targeting several other states next year.
